

The Coronavirus Kindness Project

Submit a testimonial if you have given,
received, or observed an act of kindness

The Coronavirus Kindness Project is collecting testimonials from individuals who have given, received, or observes acts of kindness.

Vinita Akula, Gabby Cintron, and Kevin Dick
The Coronavirus Kindness Project | Email
May 10, 2020

Researching Global Trends of Kindness During a Pandemic

We are interested in studying the trends of kindness during a global pandemic including its manifestation, spread between communities, and nature of the acts of kindness. Insights might show possible cultural and geographical differences or similarities in positive behavior and its effect on our communities both locally and globally.

Testimonial Collection Survey

If you choose to participate in this survey, you will be asked to submit a testimonial on your experience as a giver, receiver, or observer of an act of kindness. We will also collect information on the country where this act happened, and your race/ethnicity, gender and age group. This should take no longer than 20 minutes.

FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF MEDICINE

Florida State University College of Medicine

If you have any questions, please contact the Coronavirus Kindness Project team at coronaviruskindnessproject@gmail.com or Vinita Akula at va18b@med.fsu.edu. You may also contact the faculty advisor on this project, Dr. Suzanne Harrison, MD, Florida State University College of Medicine, by email to suzanne.harrison@med.fsu.edu or phone at (850) 644-0904.

Scan QR code to explore and share stories at the local, national, and global level

Coronavirus
Kindness
Project